I checked all the steps in the instructions, but it won't let me go further. When I try to install or build the app using "Build > Clean Project", it says: An error occurred while performing the project rebuild. The working dir: C:\Users\Personal\AndroidStudioProjects\MyFirstApp The Error message is: Could not run build tool /path/to/android-studio/bin/studio.sh I've tried "c:\path\android-studio\bin\studio.bat" /path/to/android-studio/bin/studio.sh, but it says: The working dir: C:\Users\Personal\AndroidStudioProjects\MyFirstApp The Error message is: Error: couldn't get a new process, the slave might be down or invalid. I tried deleting the project and creating a new project, but same problem. A: It's just a bug in Android Studio, I've opened a bug report on their tracker, and Android Studio team has replied about it saying: Thanks for reporting this bug. We will update the bug report to add a temporary workaround for this issue. So, go to Window>Preferences>Android>Build, and disable Incremental build. Just in case, if you need to re-enable it for any reason, you can do it.
